To the Christian Reader.

I T was not my meaning (Gentle Reader) when I first published this little treatise, so soone againe to haue imprinted it: but after somemore distāce of time, & with more mature deliberation to haue perfourmed promise, of perfecting the same: yet when I saw the first impression so suddenly dispersed, & a greater number of copies required: I was content once againe to let it passe the presse, without that extreme and last hand which my desire was to haue put vnto it. But because I durst not so farre abuse thy patience, as in nothing to increase the former edition: it may please thee to vnderstand, that I haue taken care in good part, to better and to amend the same, for thy benefite. For besides the correction enlargement, and addition of manie necessarie and profitable things, I haue now also set downe in a maner the whole historie of the Gospell, from point to point, as I could collect the same out of the Euangelistes. Obseruing also after the iudgement of the best Chronographers of our age, the yeare and time wherein euery thing was done. Further, I haue distinguished the whole booke into sixe periods of yeares, as I thought would fitliest serue for the help of thy memorie, and to auoyde confusion and tediousnesse in so great varietie. Moreover, I haue added vnto this edition an index of the names of all the Patriarkes, Iudges, Kings, Prophets, Priests, Emperours, Gouvernours, Countreys, Citties, Personages, Bookes, &c. which though perhaps it may seeme to some in so small a volume altogether superfluous: yet I perswade my selfe thou shalt finde it in vse both pleasant and profitable vnto thee. Finally I haue now translated certaine tables of Codomannus wherein

wherein thou mayest at once see a conference and concurrence of times in the storie of the Patriarkes, Iudges, and Kings: which I haue placed in the ende of the booke, next before the table. For the things which already I haue admonished thee of in my former preface, I thinke not necessarie now againe to trouble thee with them. Onely thou mayest vnderstand, that the principall causes of that difference which is betweene mine Author and Functius with others, in accounting the yeares of the world, by his adding to their number almost an hundred and fourescore yeares; are these three, First, that Codomannus taketh nothing from the yeares expressly mentioned in the storie of Iudges. Secondly, that according to S. Stephen Actes. 7. he setteth the death of Tharah before that peregrination of Abraham, which he becometh seuentie five yeares old, vnderooke at the commaundement of God, Genes. 12. And thirdly, that he beginneth the yeares of the Grecians raigne, mentioned in the bookes of the Machabees, immediatly after the death of Alexander the Great.

 Wherein because his meaning was not to preiudicate the opinion of others, but simply to expresse his owne iudgement; it ought not to be anie occasion of offence. If it shal mislike thee that I haue taken so maniethings out of the Apocrypha and other writers, besides the bookes of the Cano-nicall Scriptures: it may please thee to vn-derstand, that finding it done by mine Author, onely to continue the Historie, and for other complement, I could not conue-niently neglect the same: holding firmneuerthelesse, that knowne and new difference in authoritie, which is betwixt the sacred monuments of the spirit of
 and the fraile and doubtfull writin-men. Note also, that the yeare of the wodoth commonly in this accompt begin the moneth of Aprill. If anie further thing haue escaped the diligence of the Printer in so many numbers of so great difference I pray thee (gentle Reader) friendly to correct what thou findest to bee amiss
 And so I bid thee most heartely farewe in the Lord, this eight day of Nouember.

our Lord 137. containing 4279 yeares. Wherein seuerall Histories of holy Scripture are briefly comprised, and placed in their iust order.

The whole may be deuided into sixe periods.

The first period from Adam his Creation vnto the birth of Noah 1056. ye. res.

He first day of the world
God created Heauen
and earth, containing a confused masse, wherof
afterwardes all things were made. This day was our Sunday, or the Lords day: and as is thought, the 22. day of the moneth of Aprill.

1 Heauen & earth.
Day.

Then God created the light, separated it frō the darkenesse, and called it Day. Genesis 1.1.5.

The second day being our Monday, God made the firmament, and called it by the name of Hea-uens. Gene. 1.6.8.

2 The Fir-

A briefe Chronicle of

		rated the waters from couering the earth, which at his commaundement brought forth grasse, hearbes, and trees, hauing their seede and fruit. Gen. 1.9.13.
Sunne, Moone, Starres.	4 Day.	The fourth day being our Wednesday, God made placed in the firmament of Heauē, the Sunne, Moone, and Starres. Genes. 1.14. This day being the fife and twentieth of Aprill, was that time of Spring wherein the dayes and nights are of equal length. Then also the Moone was in the full. Other referre the Creation vnto the month of September.
Fish and foules.	5 Day.	The fifth day which was our Thursday, God made fishes and foules, with all that liue in the waters, and flie in the aire. Gen. 1.20.23.
Beasts, &c	6 Day.	The sixth day, our Friday, God created first all beasts and things creeping vpon the earth. Gen. 1.24. Secondly Adam and Eue according to the commaundement of God. Gen. 1.26. The same day marriage was instituted. Gen. 2.22.23.
Man and woman. Marriage.	7 Day.	The seventh day, our Saterday, God hauing finished his worke of creation, ceased or rested. This day vnto man, and called it Sabbath. Gen. 2.3.
The Sab- bath.		The creation of the Angels is most probably assigned vnto the first day. Of these some hold the integritie of their creation, and are called holy and elect Angels; some are false, and called Devils, whose fall is most certaine; but the time of their fall vncertaine: sauing that they must needs fall before the fall of man.
Creation of Angels.		The fall of Adam and Eue being most certaine, the day and time is also vncertaine: and therefore it is curiositie to inquire, where the word keepeth silence, and boldnesse to pronounce. That they fell not the day of their creation, beside the multitude itude and varietie of things done before and after the same day, which required tract of time. This seemeth plainly to argue, that the sixth day is concluded by Moles, with these wordes: And God beheld all that he had made, and lo it was exceeding good: so the euening and morning was made the sixth day. Codemannes assigneth Adams fall vnto the nineteenth day of the world, which was the fourteenth of the first moneth, & the tenth of May. His reason is from the institution of the Pascoer. Exod. 12. Some referre it vnto the eighth day, in the which Christ rose from the dead.

The same day wherein they fell, they receaued the promise of grace in the seede of the woman, which should breake the Serpentes head. Gen. 2.15.

At the end of the first yeare of the world were borne Caiin and Abel (if they were twinnes.) If also these were the first of Adams children, as should appeare by the reason of Caiin his name. Gene. 4.1.

After this vnto the murther of Abel, the familie of Adam was greatly multiplied in both sexes. And therefore the same is most fitly to be assigned vnto the yeare .129. or not much lesse. Gen. 4.8.

About the ende of this yeare Seth was borne, in whom the line of Christ was recontinued, which seemed vnto Eue to be broken off in the death of Abel. Gene. 5.3.

Noah was borne, when Seth his father was one hundred and fife yeares old. Genes. 5.6. Then began Religion to be corrupted euen in the Church and house of Adam, by familiaritie and entermaying with the house of Caiin. Genes. 4.26.5.4.6.2.

Some without great cause haue thought him to be Sem: but it is more modestie and lesse danger to follow the Apostle, who from the silence of Moses in this part, testifieth, that he was a figure of Christ: and not by seeking his name and parentage, to destroy the figure, and controll the spirit of God.
